Women, radiant in the bright hues of spring finery, composed at least half the audience. Diplomats filled their reservation and President Taft.
It was shown, had invited guests to the capacity of the gallery placed under his control by the House.

As a new House is without form and void it developed upon Col. Alex.
McDowell, clerk of the last House, to call the members to order. This he did standing at his own desk in front of and below the vacant chair provided for the Speaker. He called upon the chaplain for prayer, the first prayer of a session which always is printed in the Congressional Record.

McDowell directed the reading of President Taft's proclamation calling the special session. Then the roll was called alphabetically by states to record the names of the members present. Word passed among the members that 127 substituted names for those of members present at the session that opened last December appeared on the roll.

Then came the great event of the day, the election of the Speaker. Of course, the result was not in doubt but the realization that in a few minutes they would see Champ Clark's great form passing up the marble steps to the Speaker's station keyed members and spectators to a state of excitement. Clark was modestly absent during the operation but it was proved later that he was not far away.

McDowell named a Democrat and a Republican as tellers and they took their places at the clerk's desk. Each member, as his name was called announced the name of his choice for

WHO WILL BE NEXT MAYOR OF CHICAGO?

Opposing Candidates are Lined up Against Each Other on Strong Issues and Outcome is Awaited With Interest.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, April 4.—The polls opened at six o'clock this morning for what was looked upon as one of the most important municipal elections in the history of Chicago. Keen interest was displayed not only in the mayoralty fight but also in the aldermanic contests in many of the thirty-five wards, each of which elects a member of the new city council.

The contest for the mayoralty has been one of the most exciting ever witnessed in this city, beginning with the primary election at which nearly a dozen aspirants contended for the Democratic and Republican nominations.
The candidates chosen were Charles E. Merriam, Republican, and Carter H.
Harrison, Democrat. Mr. Merriam is a member of the city council and for a number of years has held the profession of political economy at the University of Chicago. He is generally regarded as the "reform" candidate for mayor and has the support of the various good government organizations. Carter H. Harrison, the Democratic nominee, is a veteran politician who has served three terms as mayor of Chicago. He is a son of the Carter Harrison, who was assassinated in 1893 while serving his fourth term as mayor of the city. In his present campaign Mr. Harrison has met with bitter opposition on the part of an influential faction of the local Democratic party headed by Roger Sullivan, the Illinois representative on the Democratic National committee. On the other hand, he has received valuable support from William H. Hearst who is seeking to even up an old score with Roger Sullivan by electing Harrison mayor.

The election of aldermen is attracting unusual attention because the next council will have to decide upon several great municipal undertakings.
Among these are regulation of the price of gas and telephone service and construction of a passenger subway.
The alleged protection of vice and the movement to wipe out the several tenement districts in the city have also figured in the election campaign.
Early this morning the indications were that nearly ninety per cent of registered voters of 423,583 would be cast before the polls closed late this afternoon.

With a drizzling rain in evidence today the democratic cohorts of Carter Harrison claimed the weather favored Harrison because it would keep down the republican vote, what they termed the "dick stocking element." For Charles E. Merriam, republican candidate, in the climax of Chicago's mayoralty campaign, Early voting was light.

ALFONSO MADERO STATES POSITION

Which He and His Father Take Regarding Attempts to Bring About Peace in Mexico.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

San Antonio, Tex., April 4.—Don Alfonso Madero, brother of Francisco I.
Madero, provisional president and leader of the Mexican insurrectionary army, around whom, with his father, Madero Sr., all manners of stories have been woven in connection with their purpose in San Antonio in connection with the Mexican peace problem, makes the following statement in an effort to clear the various reports of peace negotiations:

"There is a mistaken idea regarding the part played by my father and myself. We cannot make peace in Mexico that rests with my brother, Francisco, his chiefs and soldiers.

"My father and I have met in the Hotel Plaza, New York and decided to attempt to bring about peace. My father made demands, conditional, always upon their acceptance by my brother and his soldiers. What these demands were I am not in a position to state.

"Lamato went to Mexico and laid these demands before President Diaz who accepted them. My father is now getting into communication with my brother, who is on a journey west of Chihuahua, to lay the proposals before him. Nothing my father nor myself will enter Mexico without a guarantee of safety from the Mexican government. I cannot tell you how we are coming with brother, but we expect an answer from him within a week.

"My brother will consider concessions from the Mexican government and lay them before his chiefs and soldiers. If they agree that the Mexican government is willing to grant the things they demand, my brother will appoint a peace commission to meet the Diaz peace commission on neutral ground. The meeting positively will not be held in Chihuahua. Until we hear from my brother matters are status quo. The insurgents are continuing to wage their warfare and will not lay their arms until peace is finally established.

"Asked if the Madero followers would join the Diaz federalists in crushing
the socialist rebels in Lower California where peace is established, Madero said:

"These people are not fighting in my brother's forces but we will recognize their demands and have them represented in any peace conference, so that peace, when once established, will be lasting. When peace is established we will insist that the federal government stop all disorders but as the socialist rebels will be represented in the peace negotiations they should be willing also to lay down their arms.

"We don't hate them. They started merely as socialists but Diaz sought to crush them. The natural result was that they became almost nihilists, owing to the oppression. We are sure however, they will join in peace conferences when called."

M'GOVERN MAKES REPLY TO HOARD

Governor Disclaims the Statements of Former Member of the University Regents.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 4.—Replying a second time to former Gov. W. D.
Hoard's reiterated accusation that the recent appointments to the board of university regents were dictated by factional politics, Gov. McGovern last night issued a categorical denial and went deeply into details to explain his position. Half of the statement, which is 3,000 words long, is devoted to a summary of the qualifications of those appointees and his reasons for choosing them, while the remainder, especially the introduction, contains the repeated declaration that Mr. Hoard's accusations, though entirely unwarranted, are so direct and unambiguous that I cannot ignore them. "The government goes on to say that 'but for their authorship,' the Hoard charges might be passed by in silence. 'It is to be regretted,' he adds, 'that in these two communications he used this splendid opportunity only to abuse the confidence of the people and, without cause, to stir up controversy concerning the management of one of the great institutions of the state.'"

The governor goes on to quote various editorials in newspapers which factually are not favorable to him, in support of his contention that "after Mr. Hoard's letter was made public even his friends could not believe that he intended to attack these appointments or my good faith in making them." These same friends, says the governor, "predicted that when he spoke again there would be a blast that would blow us all off our feet."

The governor then quotes Hoard's last statement to show that, as Hoard said,
"the charge lies where it belongs, against Gov. McGovern." On this point, the governor says:

"We are now assured that there is nothing wrong with the university, or the members of the board of regents, or their educational policy. As Ex-Gov.
Hoard sees it, there is nothing wrong with anything or anyone except myself. This is relief, even to me."

Taking up Hoard's charge that he had ignored his predecessor in his message (an indication of factionalism), Gov. McGovern cites the messages of all his predecessors as far back as Hoard himself, and shows that none of them so much as mentioned the one who served before him.

The governor takes up individually each appointee and in each case denies making the appointment for political or factional reasons, but gives the qualifications of each in detail.

"It seems to me Mr. Hoard's emotions and prejudices have made sad havoc of his logic," says the governor.

ELECTION FORECAST THROUGHOUT STATE

Reports From Various Cities in Wisconsin of Local Conditions in Each.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Fond du Lac, April 4.—Fond du Lac is having genuine democratic weather today and the prediction is that F. J.
Wolff, will be elected mayor by a large majority. Out in the country districts four towns and villages are voting or the license question. In the election, here today the interest is about normal although in the wards the fight for positions in the council are very bitter.

In Milwaukee.
Milwaukee, April 4.—Reports from every district in the city in Milwaukee's non-partisan judicial and school board election indicated at noon today an exceedingly light vote was polled.
A dizzying rain prevailed. At least a thousand women will have polled their vote in the school board election when the polls close at six o'clock. This vote is directed against the socialist control and to decide a bond of $310, 000 for new school buildings.

In Waukegan.
Waukegan, Ill., April 3.—A. L. Hines,
a socialist robber, and J. H. Graham, prohibitionist who crowded out the maries are candidates for mayorality honors today. The early vote was heavy.

License or No License.
Monroe, Wis., April 4.—License or no-license is the chief issue in today's election here. A good vote is being polled despite the slow rain which has prevailed all day.

Wet or Dry.
Beloit, April 4.—Considering the bad weather, a heavy vote is being cast here today. The license question is being fiercely fought and there will be no surprise if the city goes "dry." Aside from this there are several bitter aldermanic contests.

Heavy in Madison.
Madison, April 4.—With a fairly heavy vote being polled here today, early forecasts indicate the democratic party will retain control of the city government for another term.

Commission Form.
Appleton, Wis., April 4.—Appleton's first vote for the commission form of government is being polled today.
Indications are that the vote will be six hundred less than at the primaries.
While politics are eliminated it is interesting to note that both candidates for mayor and three of the four candidates for councilmen are democrats.

the statute had not been followed in the requirement that the term of one

Dye, Madison; W. J. Starr, Eau Claire,

Madison and it is because there is no one going home, not even to vote, for he has no right to vote there. He could vote in Madison, but he would thereby forfeit the right to his seat.
Draper was a resident of Nellville when he was elected. Before coming here he shipped his goods to Loyal and brought his family to Madison.

FIXES FOUR WAYS TO DIE

New York Lawyer Uses Gas Tube, Rope, and Poison, and Has Pistol Handy.

Newark, N. J., April 4.—Morris H. Hayman, a New York lawyer, arranged four different ways to die in a room at a local hotel.

A gas tube had fallen from his lips, a piece of rope was drawn about his neck, and there was evidence of poisoning, the physicians said, in the froth on his lips, when he was found unconscious by a hotel attendant. A loaded revolver lay near by, but he had evidently provided this as a last resort.

Hospital surgeons say the man has no chance of recovery.

seminary and finished his work in that institution last spring, being a member of the class of 1910.

At present he is situated at Defiance, Ohio and will be here to take up his work in the local church on Thursday. While in the theological seminary in Chicago, Rev. Hoffmeister carried on mission work at Racine and made quite a name for himself in this line of work. He is also a musician of some talent and has gained a reputation in his musical endeavors wherever he has been situated. The people of St. Peter's church feel highly gratified over the securing of Rev. Hoffmeister for this city.

Ingenious French Woman.

A woman was recently convicted in Paris of infringing on the government monopoly of making cigars, cigarettes and tobacco by manufacturing imitations out of coconut fiber. She was fined 15,000 francs. The testimony showed that the woman had the extensive output each year of 1,500,000 "cigars," three million "cigarettes" and 25,000 pounds of "tobacco."

Madame's defense was that her goods were not imitations of tobacco, but were meant for children, that they were difficult to smoke and were "excellent for the taste—even worse than the government concern's products."

The Constitution Provides.

"I suppose they are never troubled with irrigation problems in kingdoms."

"What has the government to do with it?"

"Because in kingdoms, they are always sure of rains."

Poor Example for Humanity.

"Does delight to bark and bite, for God hath made them so." Let them have the monopoly.

An Absolutely Honest Man.

"Is he a man to be trusted?" "Absolutely. You may even have a cigar exposed in your vest pocket and he won't reach over and grab it."

THRONGS BESIEGE HALL OF CONGRESS AT THE OPENING

There will be less than a thousand words.

Proceedings differed somewhat in the Senate, it being a continuing body. That is, one-third of the members retire or are elected every two years, but two-thirds of the membership are full-fledged with authority and qualified for business at the beginning of a new Congress.

With Aldrich, Hale, Keen, Scott, Burrows, Carter, and others of the Standpat leaders missing the attendance on the floor presented an almost startling scene to those familiar with the Senate of recent years. There was no Aldrich to direct the proceedings. Progressives, with their increased numbers and prestige, showed a serene and contented mood.

Vice President Sherman, ruddy with the glow of health, well-groomed, as usual, and also with a flaring carnation on the lapel of his coat as usual, stepped into the chamber at one minute to twelve as solemnly as though there had been no break in the session. He announced prayer by the chaplain and when that was over the clerk was directed to read the President's proclamation calling the extraordinary session.

The roll was called. Reasons for the absence of a number of members were given by their colleagues.

Re-elected Senators and the new recruits were lined up in front of the seats and facing the Vice President. He administered the oath prescribed by law.

Resolutions were adopted directing the Secretary to notify the House that the Senate was ready for business and for the appointment of a committee to join the House committee in visiting the White House to inform the President that Congress was ready to hear from him.

The time-honored resolution providing that the Senate should meet daily at noon was adopted without discussion or dissent.

The galleries, particularly the large one reserved for the families of members, were occupied largely by women in brilliant array. As in the House spectators crowded the galleries at an early hour and long lines of disappointed ones, who came late, waited patiently in the lines in the corridors for the forlorn hope that early interludes might give them at least standing room in the galleries.

At the caucus of the republican senators this afternoon Senator Cullom was elected permanent chairman and was authorized to name the steering committee and the committee on committees.

An understanding was reached that the insurgents shall have satisfactory recognition on the committees.

Now if this is true, don't war your head and say that Dr. Richards can't do painless work.

But you have got to go to the right Dentist.

VOTE IS FAIRLY HEAVY IN CITY

MUCH INTEREST IS SHOWN

First and Fifth Voting Is Much Heavier Than Two Years Ago—Autos and Rigs Plentiful.

With wet, cold, rain and allday contests in but two wards, the first and second, to attract the rank and file of voters today, the ballot cast at one o'clock was unusually heavy, considering everything. In fact in the first and fifth wards the total vote at one was well above that of two years ago, the fifth showing the greatest gain.

Interest in the mayoralty contest is what has brought the vote out in the second, third and fifth wards, and from the work being done by the friends of the two candidates it is apparent that all who can be brought to the polls will be there before seven tonight. Autos are busy in the third, working in the interests of Mr. Fife and are also used in other places in the city.

Nichols forces have wagons for each ward and also an auto to make emergency calls where needed. In the first and second wards the contest between the party nominees for aldermen is bringing out a good vote. Schmiedley forces in the first are working hard to bring about a democratic victory in that republican stronghold to defeat Weber and in the second Connolly's forces are working against Scott, who two years ago defeated Connolly in a close race.

The vote was as follows by wards at one o'clock as compared with the previous years.

	1911	1910	1909
First Ward	260	200	253
Second Ward	260	234	261
Third Ward	225	273	262
Fourth Ward	239	257	293
Fifth Ward	172	134	134

In 1910 the question of license or no license called out a large vote, while in 1909 the fight for the Mayorship between Carle and Nichols which resulted in Carle's election by thirty-two was the dominant feature.

PETITIONS TO GO TO THE ASSEMBLY

Local Ministers Will Circulate Papers To Help Passage of "Dry Zone" Bill.

Janesville clergymen will take an active part in helping the passage of the bill now before the legislature which has for its purpose the abolition of saloons within five miles from the state university. This action will consist of circulating petitions among their congregations and sending them to the assemblyman from the district. All of the ministers in the city are in receipt of these blank petitions together with a strong appeal from E. W. Blakeman, acting in behalf of a large committee at Madison, composed of students, towns people and others banded together for the purpose of doing all in their power to secure the passage of the five mile limit bill.

The ministers in the several churches of the city will probably start these petitions next Sunday morning and when they are filled, send the same to Assemblyman Grant Fisher in an envelope to get his vote on the measure. It is stated in the communication from the Madison committee that those in favor of the bill feel that there are many residents of the state at large who would favor the abolition of the saloon around the university and this method has been taken to acquaint the different legislators with the opinions of their constituents. They feel that the majority of the students want the "dry zone" and they say that the bill is favored by many members of the faculty and leaders among the different student organizations.

The bill as amended does not affect county agricultural schools nor state normal schools.

Skilful Chinese Dentistry. There is now on the active list of the United States army an accomplished officer who, during an extensive sojourn in China, had some work done on his teeth by a native dentist, which is wonderful to behold. In the place of three or four missing teeth the Chinese operative appears to have anchored a single strip of gold, which seems to serve the intended purpose all right, but without a line or curve to show the contour of individual teeth. The officer who possesses this remarkable example of oriental dentistry prizes it as a Chinese curio.

DAIRY PRODUCTS DECIDEDLY LOWER

Price of Creamery Butter Has Dropped Three Cents in the Past Week—Fresh Eggs Are Cheap.

Butter is now the cheapest it has been for many years and the high price is only 21 cents per pound. The dairy product may be purchased from the farmer for from 18 to 20 cents per pound, which is a decided drop from the prices paid last year at this time, about 28 cents.

For the past four years the price of butter, according to the high market, for the first week in April has been 30 cents, and the dairy product has ranged about two cents below that amount.

This drop will be received by the housewives of Janesville with not a little joy as the difference of ten cents on a pound of butter is quite an amount.

There has been a drop also in the price of fresh eggs and the prices paid to the farmer are about 12 to 13 cents at present. This is at least 2 or 3 cents below the price of a year ago.

JANESVILLE COUPLE SECRETLY MARRIED

Miss Catherine Hatch and Richard Saxby Wedded in Chicago and Kept Fact Unknown to Friends.

Married quietly in Chicago on March 8, Miss Catherine Hatch and Richard Saxby, both of this city, kept their wedding a secret for over two weeks, and only recently a chosen few of their friends were aware that the couple were man and wife.

A justice of the peace performed the ceremony and afterward the couple returned to this city, saying nothing of what had happened. Finally, friends became suspicious and on close questioning, the truth of their suspicions was admitted. Both are well known in this city.

ROBBERS AT WORK NEAR ORFORDVILLE

Depredations Committed by Marauders on Beloit Road Were of a Serious Character.

Orfordville, Wis., April 4.—Robbers have been making frequent calls on the Beloit road in the vicinity of this place of late and their visits have assumed a serious character.

On Thursday night they got a good supply of provisions at Arthur Arnold's and at the P. P. Shibley farm they secured a jar of jam.

They stopped at the home of Ben Anderson where the family were away, but their dog which was shut inside made a frantic demonstration and jumped through the window after the marauders, who moved along. At Henry Osterlund's they took good sized chunks of dried beef and sausage from the summer kitchen.

At the home of M. D. Beebe they went down the outside cellar way and made their escape with four or five bushels of potatoes and three large loaves of bread. And they continued into the milk cellar they might have taken several jars of butter and a supply of canned fruit, but as the door squeaked they evidently did not care to take the risk.

Mrs. Beebe was awakened in the course of the night and heard a noise but paid no attention explaining it as a usual night sound. Other depredations may have been committed, but from all reports the thieves evidently made a considerable haul. Efforts will be made to secure their capture.

Special Permit: John H. Knobel of Freeport, Ill., and Edna Robinson of Three Rivers, Mich., obtained a marriage license and a special permit at the court house this morning.

WOMAN'S PAGE

To Our Women Readers.

"Let us eat and drink
For tomorrow we shall die."

The second "Woman's Contest" began Saturday last. This time you must suggest a menu for a week, 21 meals.

The rules of the contest are:
Write on one side of the paper only.
Menus must be made up entirely from receipts printed on Menus must be made up entirely from receipts printed on the woman's page of the Gazette.
Menus must be mailed to Feature Editor of the Gazette by May 1st, 1911.

Menus must be accompanied with a list of dates giving date of publication of the recipes used.

Here are a few suggestions that will help.

Secure from the Gazette the FREE scrap book and paste into it each night the receipts published. This scrap book can be had free in exchange for the scrap book coupon which appears in the Gazette every day during April. Call at the Gazette office for it, or send for it by mail, enclosing 2c stamp to pay postage.

If you have any "pet" recipe that you would like to use in your menus, and you think they will not be published on the woman's page so as to make them available for contest use, simply write the recipe on a piece of paper and mail it to the Feature Editor. It will then be published and you can use it, but every other contestant will be allowed to use it if they wish. The art in this contest is to select recipes in such a manner as to make the entire menu in harmony. It calls for the best talent in each contestant, and is going to make this contest the most interesting ever inaugurated in Janesville.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

CHRIST, the Lord, is risen, and therefore I must get me a new hat and gown with which to celebrate this great anniversary.

Sounds terrible, doesn't it?
Makes you positively shudder at its bald irreverence.
And yet that is substantially what thousands of American women are saying by their manner of celebrating Easter Day.

"What are you going to have new for Easter?" Nearly everywhere in the last few weeks of Lent you hear that question.

And in the dressmaker's little back room, at the tailor's shop, in the sweet shops and in the millinery work rooms, over-wrought noses, tired fingers, and throbbing eyes are kept at their tasks twelve and fifteen hours a day to answer that question.

Truly we are doing almost as well with Easter as we have with Christmas.

I know a girl who stayed home from church last Easter because "I didn't have a single new thing to wear and I felt too shabby."

I know two other girls who went to church on Easter for the first time in two or three months to wear their Easter suits and hats.

Just think for a moment of what Easter means. Easter is the day above all Christian holy days—even above Christmas, it seems to me—which should hold the fullest significance for Christians.

It celebrates the greatest belief of mankind, the belief in immortality.

Easter is the day which gives its meaning and its right to be to that magnificent chain of St. Paul's which sums up the greatest outcome of the Greatest Man's life—

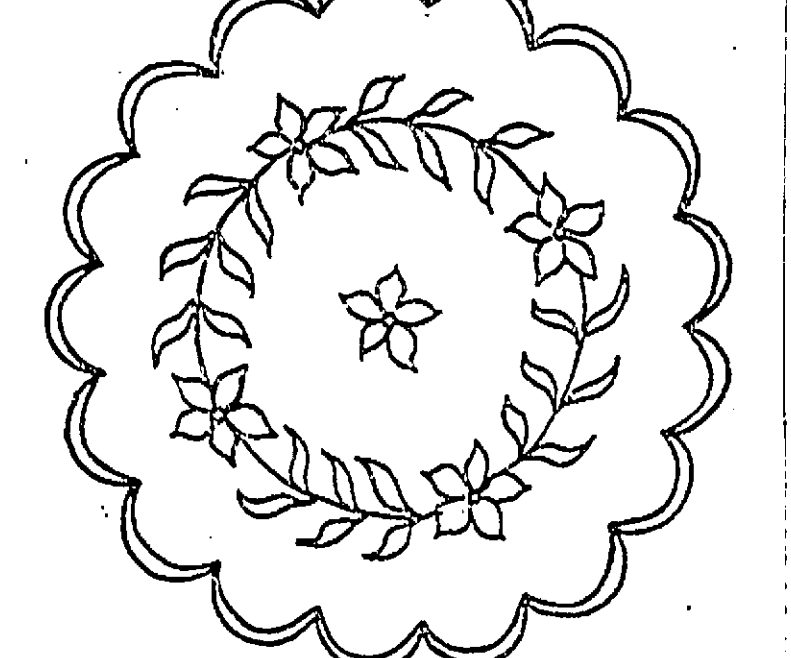

"O, death, where is thy sting?
O, grave, where is thy victory?"

And we are making this wonderful day, a day dedicated to clothes, a day when we stay at home from worship because we are shabby, or go because we have new garments to show off, a day to prepare for which we let our less fortunate sisters suffer the agonies of overwork.

No, there is nothing wrong in liking beautiful things. There is nothing unbecomingly in discarding one's dark winter garments and trying to make oneself more in harmony with the beautiful spring things about one.

But it seems to me there is great harm in allowing the clothes interest to obscure the meaning of Easter as much as we American women are in danger of doing.

Don't you agree with me?

TUMBLER DOLLY.

This dainty design for a tumbler dolly or top of a phyllophoron is effective and easy to do. The scallop is padded, then closely buttonholed. The flowers and leaves are worked solid, and the stem in the outline stitch. Mercerized cotton No. 30 or 40 floss may be used for the embroidery.

WHERE THE FAULT LIES.

"The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are underlings."

So Shakespeare makes one of his characters explain the failure of men to reach the height of their ambitions. Underlings we must remain to the last hour of our lives unless each of us exerts himself in his own behalf.

We are no time rise higher than the source of our inspiration. If we remain underlings, it is quite evident that something went wrong with our aspirations.

What profit it if a man spend his energy in building a lighthouse and the keeper fails utterly to keep the light burning? What profit it if we give all the equipment for success we wish to make use of our opportunities? We are experts in the same predicament as the man who has given his talents to building a lighthouse which never fulfills its purpose.

And we fail often because we neglect to perform the little duties of life in sincerity. Being little we want them or pass them over entirely. And no career that is in any measure successful can be built in that way.

The magnificent building which attracts our eyes and holds our attention, in wonderment and admiration, was not constructed as a whole. It is the result of infinite pains with little things. The architect and the builder have neglected nothing. If they had, the building would not have been of sufficient importance to attract a second passing glance.

Lives that attract the attention of others because of their resourcefulness, because of their richness of effect or their genuine value to humanity are not the result of a sudden impulse or of spasmodic attempts to achieve. But, on the contrary, they are the result of a life of close attention to detail and the knack of doing little things well. One might say the drudgery of doing little things well, except that to one who has results in view there is no drudgery in perfecting even the most trying detail.

Many men fail of success because they lack in enthusiasm, because they fail to have a real affection for the thing they are attempting. And the surest thing in the world is failure for the man or woman who lacks in these essential qualities. We can only give of our best to the thing that holds us with the same sort of affection as the magnet holds the needle. If we can't give of our best to the thing we are attempting, we had better leave it alone and turn to something that will arouse our enthusiasm and hold our undivided attention.

If we persist in doing things in a half-hearted way, we are sure to remain underlings while others with far less native talent and capacity far outstrip us simply because of the enthusiasm they put into the thing attempted. Men are masters of their crafts because they have earned their places, because they have kept their lights burning and despised not the days of small things.

KATHERINE KIP.

THE PATH OF LONG AGO

The winding paths of long ago—
They cross us, cross us all the while.
With golden blossoms all aglow,
And mosses gleaming pale on stile.
Out of to-day they have their start,
From ferns, from banks where we stand.

Into the heart of the heart,
Into the golden yesterday,
He, walking, glances bent above
The daisy, worn pathways up the
And all of laughter and of love
In whispering about their still;
They wound their way beside the stream,
They hid themselves within the wood.

And as the pathway of a dream
Each faded softly where we stand,
Through thickets where the berries
Grow,
Through orchards drooping in perfume,
Through quiet pasture lands, and Through

The willow ways of tangled bloom
The golden pathways wound and went,
And we look back away, away,
To where our yesterday are bent
In the soft haze of work and play.

And but in dreams we foot them all—
The paths we knew of old and well;
The paths of youth and robin-calls,
The paths whose charms no words
Can tell.

We see them dropping down the hill,
We see them hailing by the brook,
We see them where the trees are still
In every shadowed forest nook.

The wind-swept paths of long ago—
They cross us, cross us all the while;
And we would fain arise and go Through all the old days hazy on miles.

Out of to-day they have their start,
From ferns, from banks where we stand,
Into the golden yesterday.

Cretonne Writing Set a Gift Which Will Be Pleasing to Any Girl.

For the maid who loves white enameled furniture and dainty articles nothing can be more charming than a cretonne-covered writing set for the boudoir desk. It is especially appropriate in a simple rosebud design for a young girl.

First there is the big blotter, the foundation cut out of heavy cardboard after a leather model and the cretonne carefully pasted on, with tiny stitches to round the corners properly. A narrow slip edging may be used if desired, but if you can do the work neatly enough it is really prettier without.

Next in order is the set of note-books, ranging from the big diary to the little address book, and each neatly bound. Here the gilt or green glaze is more in order, but you may suit your own tastes about that.

Calendar (the cards for the perpetual variety may be bought, with a light, cheap frame, at any stationer's) and picture frames belong together; and after them come the little boxes for pen points, elastic, etc. These may be merely little jewelry boxes lined with silk or velvet or, better, gray chamois.

There are three articles which must not be included in this set. These are the ink well and the pen tray, because of the danger of staining them, and the candlesticks, because of that fire.

And, by the way, give a piece of the plain fabric with your present, or get it extra if you are making the set for yourself. For accidents will happen, and first aid is a useful thing to have at hand.

All sorts of smaller articles, such as little blotters, penwiper, paper-cutter, etc., may be covered with the pretty fabric. Of course, broadened silk may be used instead, if you desire to make the set a more expensive one.

Seven Bridesmaids All A Bloom.
Seven Bridesmaids all in a row, in a single file up the aisle of the church. "All wore gowns of cream mesaline over rainbow silk. Their short lace veils were caught with half a crown of flowers. One wore moss rosebuds in her hair and carried a muff of the same blossoms. Next came a girl decked with sweet peas. Violets, yellow and brown nasturtiums, clematis, Meteor roses and orchids also bloomed in the quaint decoration of the bride's attendants.

ACTUAL BIRTHDAY AMERICAN FLAG.

April 4.—Regardless of all the other dates that are claimed for it, today is the actual date on which the American flag—the modern style of flag—was first given to the light. This flag was adopted by congress on April 4, 1818, and it was made from the design of Captain Samuel C. Reed. The flag of 1818 contained 20 stars, one for each state then in the Union. The American flag which Washington unfurled at Cambridge, Mass., on January 1, 1776, had the thirteen stripes, but the stars light held the names of the states and St. George, On June 14, 1777, the Continental congress passed a resolution "that the flags of the United States be thirteen alternate stripes of red and white, that the Union be thirteen stars, white on a blue field, representing a new constellation." There are all kinds of claims and legends in regard to whom the credit should be given for the first idea of the flag, but the most probable is that it was evolved from a number of flags. Whatever the origin, the result was a very pretty piece of hunting to live under.

Amunition Ship on Naval Program. Specialization in naval affairs is further emphasized by the request of Rear Admiral Mason of the bureau of ordnance, that an ammunition ship be included in the 1911 naval program. Not only has the rapidity of gunfire increased at a tremendous rate recently, but the dreadnought type in itself could not be expected to carry enough ammunition for a prolonged fighting cruise. Weight of armor, guns, turrets and absolutely essential coal to make the cruising radius greater all have been obtained by keeping the ammunition supply at a minimum of safety.

COUNCIL REVOKED OLD FRANCHISE

CINCINNATI CONSTRUCTION COMPANY'S FRANCHISE GRANTED SOME MONTHS AGO REVOKED BY CITY FATH. ERS LAST NIGHT.

NUMEROUS ORDERS PASSED

Street Signs Were Discussed But No Action Taken.—Crosswalks, Sewer Construction and Other Matters Amicably Considered.

Following several years of dilatory tactics in which Janesville has been placed on the route of the Cincinnati Construction Company's proposed electric line to Madison through northwestern Janesville, the franchise granted by the city of Janesville some months ago, was revoked at the meeting of the council at the city hall last evening. The order was introduced by Ald. Short, and it was stated that in consideration of the fact that the company had not begun work on the construction of their electric line within the time specified the franchise should be revoked. The order was passed without comment and the company is now without a franchise in this city. What tactics it will now institute is a question but it has only recently brought forth another paper plan including Janesville on its route to Madison.

Street Signs. There was no excitement at the meeting last night and many points of business were disposed of.

The only question which provoked any discussion was that of the street signs in which Alderman Dull and Hall engaged in a cross fire as to the relative merits of the various firms which have made plans. Alderman Hall recommended that the city should be supplied with signs at a cost of $175. He claimed that these were superior articles and that they were recommended by the Rock County Telephone Company, who had used them for years. The matter of putting them up could be handled by the street commissioner for about $100, according to Alderman Hall, but this was seriously doubted by Alderman Dull, who expounded a proposition from a Chicago firm, who would furnish a hundred guarantee and put up the signs. The price however, was not stated.

Alderman Hall claimed that he could furnish a hundred guarantee for ten years, but was not ready to present it at that time and the matter was dropped then and there when a motion to adjourn was passed.

Crosswalks Ordered. One of the matters which received special attention at the meeting last night was that of crosswalks. The approach of that time of the year when showers are the order of the day and crossings are especially needed may account for the activity at this time.

Alderman Evans started the matter off with an order for the building of some ten or twelve brick crosswalks in the first ward. To this large number Ald. Dull objected, maintaining that it was more than any ward should have ordered at one time. It was simply a question of who would get their order in first, he claimed, and he thought the number should be cut in two.

Alderman Evans acquiesced very gracefully and said he did not care to take more than was his right and cut down the number, crossing out the walk which were needed the least.

Alderman Donahue and Reiford presented orders for crosswalks in the fourth and fifth wards respectively and these were granted by unanimous vote.

Along the same line as the crosswalks was the matter of cleaning out the gutters and crossings in the second ward which was presented by Alderman Scott and voted by the council. Alderman Reiford presented a like proposition for the fourth ward, which was also adopted and ordered. Alderman Sheridan read an order for the purchase of two carloads of paving brick, which was passed evidently in anticipation of the large amount needed for the new crosswalks.

One Sidewalk Bridge. The only matter which came up in reference to the bridges was that of the proposed plans of the Lincoln street structure for which specifications have been drawn for but one sidewalk. To this Alderman Dull was opposed and said that it should be further considered as the residents in that section wanted two sidewalks. He asked the City Engineer how the matter stood.

City Engineer Korch said that the plans for the bridge had been drawn for but one sidewalk with the general understanding that that was all that was necessary for the traffic and to keep down the expense of building. However, in his estimation the plans might be changed and he thought that the bids made could include the two sidewalks. Alderman Dull expressed himself that this should be done and the matter was dropped.

Sewer Construction.

Alderman Evans presented an order for the extending of the city sewer system to cover a more extensive territory which was passed. The order contained provisions for sewer in district 5 on Academy street from the present sewer on Western Avenue to the northern boundary of the district between Center and Pleasant streets; and on South High street from the present sewer on School street to extend 300 feet north.

In district 4 on Franklin street from the present sewer at Dakota street to a point midway between Holmes street and School street.

In district No. 14, when an outlet is provided for the construction of a sewer on Garfield avenue from Milwaukee avenue to Court street, then on Garfield avenue from Milwaukee avenue to Glen street, on Glen street from Garfield avenue to Augusta street on Prospect avenue to a point 250 feet north.

Various bonds were accepted including those of Williams and Bailey, Jas. Black and W. A. Wireless Around the World.

In a report from Singapore, Consul-General Duffell says that he heard that it would cost only about $5,000,000 to connect the British possessions all over the world by a wireless telegraph system. The annual cost of operation would be about $1,000,000, but that does not seem much when the advantage of uninterrupted communication from Montreal to Cape Town is considered. Stations would be required at Montreal, Glace Bay and Vancouver, Canada; Hongkong, Singapore, Perth, Adelaide and Sydney, Australia; Wellington, New Zealand; Gibraltar, Malta, Alexandria, Egypt; Aden, Bombay, Colombo, Mombasa, Durban, Cape Town, Bathurst, Sierra Leone and St. Helena, Africa.

One Sidewalk Bridge.

The only matter which came up in reference to the bridges was that of the proposed plans of the Lincoln street structure for which specifications have been drawn for but one sidewalk. To this Alderman Dull was opposed and said that it should be further considered as the residents in that section wanted two sidewalks. He asked the City Engineer how the matter stood.

City Engineer Korch said that the plans for the bridge had been drawn for but one sidewalk with the general understanding that that was all that was necessary for the traffic and to keep down the expense of building. However, in his estimation the plans might be changed and he thought that the bids made could include the two sidewalks. Alderman Dull expressed himself that this should be done and the matter was dropped.

Sewer Construction.

Alderman Evans presented an order for the extending of the city sewer system to cover a more extensive territory which was passed. The order contained provisions for sewer in district 5 on Academy street from the present sewer on Western Avenue to the northern boundary of the district between Center and Pleasant streets; and on South High street from the present sewer on School street to extend 300 feet north.

In district 4 on Franklin street from the present sewer at Dakota street to a point midway between Holmes street and School street.

The BRONZE BELL

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
AUTHOR OF "THE BRASS BOWL" ETC.
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WAITERS

"You miserable, misbegotten blighter of a wall-eyed American!" At this point he became unprintably profane.

It Was Signed: "Pink Satin."

And Doggett fell upon him with the laudable intention of throwing him out. In the struggle Amber caught his eye, and it was bright with meaning. "Pink Satin!" he blurted. "It's gone ahead. . . . You're to keep on to Agria. . . . Change for Bakhah Junction, Rajputana Route. . . . Then on to Kuttapur. . . . Farrell's there and his daughter. . . . That's right, my man, throw me out!"

His downfall was spectacular. In his enthusiasm for the part he played, he had erred to the extent of delivering a blow in Doggett's face, more forcible, probably, than he had intended it to be. Promptly he landed sprawling on the station platform. And the train continued on its appointed way, bearing both Amber and the injured Doggett.

Thus they came to the heart of Rajputana.

In the chill of dawn they were deposited at Bakhah Junction. A scanty length of rude platform received them and their two small traveling bags.

They stood, then, forlorn in a howling desolation. For signs of life they had the station, a flimsy shelter roofed with corrugated iron, a beaten track that wandered off northwards and disappeared over a grassless swell, a handful of mud huts at a distance, and the ticket agent. The latter, a sleepy, surly Koradani in pyjamas, surveyed them listlessly from the threshold of the station, and without a sign either of interest or contempt turned and locked himself in.

Amber sat down on his upturned suitcase and laughed and lit a cigarette. Doggett groaned.

Presently the sun rose in glory and sent its burning level rays to cast a shadow several rods long of an enraged American beating frantically with clenched fists upon the door of an unresponsive railway station.

He hammered until he was weary, then deplored his task to Doggett, who resourcefully found him a stone of size and proceeded to make dents in the door. This method elicited the Koradani, who came out, listened attentively to abuse and languidly to their demands for a tonga to bear them to Kuttapur, and observed that the mail tonga left once a day—at three in the afternoon. Doggett caught him as he was on the point of returning to his interrupted repose and called his attention to the unwelcome of his ways.

Apparently convinced, this ticket agent announced his intention of endeavoring to find a tonga for the sahib. Besides, he was not unwilling to acquire rupees. He bowed thoughtfully at Amber, ferociously at Doggett, went back into the station, gossiped casually with the telegraph sounder for a quarter of an hour, and finally reappearing, without a word or a nod left the platform for the road and walked and walked and walked.

An hour passed as three. The heat became terrific; not a breath of wind stirred. The face of the world lost its contours in wavering mirage.

In the slumbers of Asiatic time in tonga came from heaven knew where. Amber got up and looked it over with a just eye and a finger none the sweeter for his experience. It was a brute of a tonga, a patched and ramshackle wreck of what had once been a real tonga, with no top to protect the travelers from the sun, and accommodation only for three, including the driver.

The Eurasian ticket agent alighted and solicited rupees. He got them and with them Amber's unpublished opinion of the tonga; something which was not received with civility by the driver.

He remained in his seat—a short, squat native with an evil countenance and, across his knees, a sheathed cut-throat—arguing with Amber in broken English and abusing him scandalously in impure Hindi, flinging at him in sudden tones untranslatable scraps of bazaar Billingsgate. For, as he explained in an audible aside to the ticket agent, this sahib was an outlander and, being as ignorant as most sahibs, could not understand Hindi. At this the Eurasian turned away to hide a grin of delight and the driver while he deliberately at Amber the while he broadly sketched for him his ancestry and the manner of his life at home and abroad.

Thunderstruck, Amber caught himself just as he was on the point of attempting to drag the driver from his seat and beat him into a more endurable frame of mind. He swallowed the hint and gave up the contest.

"Oh, very well," he conceded. "I presume you're trying to say there isn't another tonga to be had and it can't be helped; but I don't like your tone. However, there doesn't seem to be anything to do but take you. How much for the two of us?"

"Your servant, sahib?" He cannot ride in this tonga," asserted the driver impressively.

"He can't. Why not?"

"You can see there is room for but two, and I have yet another passenger."

"Where?"

"At the first dak-bungalow, sahib, where the mail tonga broke down last night. This tonga, which I say is an excellent tonga, an arm tonga, a tonga for ease, is sent to take its place. More than this, I am bliden to find in haste; therefore there is little time for you to decide whether or not you will go with me alone. As for your servant, he can follow by this afternoon's mail tonga."

Upon this ultimatum he stood, immovable; neither threats nor bribery availed. It was an order, he said; he had no choice other than to obey. Shabash! Would the sahib be pleased to make up his mind quickly?

Perforce, the sahib yielded. "I'll be Labortouche," he arranged this," he told himself. "That hafter said he'd gone on ahead of us." And comforted he issued his orders to Doggett, who recoiled and needed to them with all the ill-grace imaginable. He was to remain and follow to Kuttapur by the afternoon's tonga.

Climbing aboard, the Koradani settled himself against the endless coils of the rick which he foresaw: the tonga was anything but "an arm tonga—a tonga for ease"; there was no shade and no breeze, and the face of the land crawled with heat-baked haze.

To a crisp crackling of the whip, lash over the backs of the two sturdy, slung, flea-bitten ponies, the tonga swept away from the station, swift as a hunted fox with a dusty plume.

Amber leaned forward, watching the driver's face. "Your name, tonga-wallah?" he enquired.

"Ram Nath, sahib." The man spoke without moving his head, attending diligently to the management of his ponies.

"And this other passenger, who awaits us at the dak-bungalow, Ram Nath—is he, perchance, one known both to you and to me?"

Amber sat back, annoyed by the fellow's impudence yet sensitive to a suspicion that Ram Nath was playing his part better than his passenger, that the remark was merited by one who had ventured to speak of secret things in a land whose very stones have ears. For all that he could say their every move was watched by invisible spies, of whom the rock-strewn waste through which they sped might well harbor a hidden legion. . . . But perhaps, after all, Ram Nath had nothing whatever to do with Labortouche. Undoubtedly as had been his wish, it might well have been nothing more than an impertinence.

Meanwhile the tonga rocked and bounded feebly over an infamous parody of a road, turning and twisting between huge boulders and in and out of pebbly nullahs, Ram Nath tooling it along with the hand of a master. But all his attention was of necessity centered upon the ponies, and presently his tulwar slipped from his knees and clattered upon the floor of the tonga. Amber saw his chance and put his foot upon it.

"Ram Nath," he asked gently, "have you no other arms?"

"I were a fool had I not." The man did not deign to glance round. "It is not need of weapons who doth traffic with the Chosen of the Voice, sahib."

"Ah, that Voice!" cried Amber in exasperation. "I grow weary of the word, Ram Nath."

"That may well be," returned the man, imperturbable. "None the less it were well for you to have a cure how you fondle the revolver in your pocket, sahib. Should it by chance go off and the bullet find lodgment in your tonga-wallah, you are like to hear more of that Voice, and from less friendly lips."

"I think you have eyes in the back of your head, Ram Nath," Amber withdrew his hand from his coat-pocket and laughed shortly as he spoke.

"There is a saying in this country, sahib, that even the stones in the desert have ears to hear and eyes to see and tongues withal to tell what they have seen and heard."

"Ah! . . . That is a wise saying, Ram Nath."

"There be those I could name who would do well to lay that saying to heart, sahib."

"You are right, indeed. . . . Now if there be ought of truth in that saying, and if one were unwisely to speak a certain name, even here—"

"The echo of that name might be heard beyond the threshold of a certain Gateway, sahib."

Amber granted and said no more, contented now with the assurance that he was in truth in touch with Labortouche, that this Ram Nath was an employee of the I. S. S. The wink was now explained away with all the rest of the tonga-wallah's churlishness.

As the tonga swiftly lessened the distance, his gaze, penetrating the thinning folds, discerned the contours of a cotton-wad drawn by twin stunted bullocks, patient noses to the ground, tails aswitch. Beside his cattle the driver plodded, head in hand, a naked sword upon his hip.

Deliberately enough the earlier swerved his beast aside to make way for the tonga, lest by undue haste he should make himself seem other than what he was—a free man and a Rajput. But when his fierce, hawk-like eyes encountered those of the dak traveler, his attitude changed abruptly and completely. Recognition and reverence fought with surprise in his expression, and as Ram Nath swung the tonga past the man saluted profoundly. His voice, as he rose, came after them, resonant and clear:

"Hail, thou Chosen of the Gateway! Hail!"

Amber neither turned to look nor replied. But his frown deepened. The incident passed into his history, marked only by the terse comment it added from Ram Nath—words which were flung curtly over the tonga-wallah's shoulder: "Eyes to see and ears to hear and a tongue withal . . . sahib!"

The Koradani said nothing. But it was in his mind that he had indeed thrust his head into the lion's mouth by thus adventuring into the territory which every instinct of caution and common-sense proclaimed taboo to him—the erstwhile kingdom of the Maharaja Har Dyal Ration.

SATURN AND THE MOON.

It is always an event of interest when the moon passes near any of the brighter planets—Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The spectacle is one of great beauty, and careful watching will enable the observer to see the moon's progress as it advances. Moreover, if we know when this is to happen it will furnish a clue to enable us to identify the planet.

At midnight, eastern time, Jan. 8 the moon is to be in conjunction with Saturn, passing from west to east of that body, with the moon's center only one degree north of Saturn's. This will bring the moon's southern edge only three-quarters of a degree from Saturn. The moon's diameter being half a degree, it will be seen that its lower edge will be distant from the planet only one and one-half times its own diameter.

The planets, while they look like the fixed stars, are seven brother and sister worlds of our earth, which makes the number eight. To our eyes they seem to move about among the stars. They are so near that they can be magnified to sensible disks, as the stars, being so far away, cannot. The planets shine only with the borrowed light of the sun, as does the moon, while the stars are suns and shine with their own light.

Sun, moon and planets all travel the same avenue, known as the zodiacal belt; hence they sometimes seem not only to come close to each other, but occasionally to pass in front of or behind each other. Thus Mercury and Venus occasionally "transit" the sun, and the moon occasionally "occults" a planet.

It is only because it is so much nearer the earth that the moon appears so much larger than Saturn, the former being 2,380 miles distant, the latter 870,000,000 miles. The moon's diameter is only 2,160 miles, and Saturn's is 72,000. With even a small and inexpensive telescope one can see Saturn's wonderful rings. It has also ten moons.

Quite So.

"No baby talk among the 400, I suppose."

"Plenty of that language in use. Most poodles understand it other."

A Reliable Medicine—NOT A NARCOTIC.

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and rattling spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has many times saved my little trouble and we are never without it in the house." The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Badger Drug Co.

Many Dogs in France. The editor of the Lancet says: "There are more dogs in France than most countries. Thus it appears that to one thousand inhabitants there are seventy-five dogs in France and only thirty-eight in England, thirty-one in Germany and eleven in Sweden. Still, hydrophobia is extremely rare in the department of the Seine, the last case observed dating back to the year 1905." Dr. Martel says this good state of things has been brought about by the law for killing not only every mad dog, but also for killing every dog any mad dog may have bitten or played with. But since this law, no work out to perfection, the French also exterminate all stray dogs.

Relative Cost the Same. In reference to the relative cost of American and British heavy machine tools, the technical director of one of the leading Belgian works states that a careful calculation based on the prices paid to a well-known American and a prominent English house shows the charge a kilogram for boring mills to be practically the same. He adds that on the face of it the American machine would appear to be more expensive, but the difference in price, he found was made up by the greater weight in the American tool.

Good for Busy Man. A letter opened, mail scale and six-inch rule have been combined in a handy desk implement.

A Sure Sign. "Gee, but that man must know all about Wall Street!" "What makes you think so?" "In never speculates."

The Evolution of Booster Bill

V.—Bill Praises the Editor

When Bill no longer was a clump And saw 'twas time to make things hump,

To square accounts he started in, Dead sore he had a knocker bean.

Now when the paper blooms the town Bill goes and planks his dollars down, The editor slips on the back And says, "That sheet's a cracker-jack."

"The editor will stand by us And make the whole town prosperous, If we will stand by him, 'SO FILL HIS PAGE WITH ADS,'" cries "Booster Bill."

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, April 4, 1871.—

Disappearance of L. F. Patton. It has become our painful duty to make public the statement that L. F. Patton, an able, honest and prominent citizen of this place, has disappeared in a most mysterious manner. On the 17th of March he left his home in this city and went to Chicago with the intention of being absent for a day or two. It is ascertained that he took dinner at the Tremont House on that day and from there he wrote a line to his family, stating that he thought of going to Springfield to see a friend there and that he would be home the following Monday. Since that time nothing has been heard of him. Some of his friends fear that he may have met foul play in Chicago.

The crowds at the foot of Court street hill have been relieved of their sandy covering.

Tens are yielding bountifully of fruit for the coming Easter season.

Hon. Willard Merrill of this city has been appointed by the governor a member of the state board of charities.

Hon. J. W. Stewart, one of the earliest settlers of Green county, passed through this city this morning to Chicago, where he has become permanently located. He was accompanied by his father who is also one of the fathers of the M. E. church in this country. For over fifty years he has been one of her ministers, and has labored in organizing all that part of the church west of Ohio.

The first spring flowers appeared several days ago.
